[Re: ECF No. 1]

16 INTRODUCTION

17 Petitioner United States of America filed an ex parte application to take discovery pursuant to 28
18 U.S.C. § 1782. (Application, ECF No. 1.<sup>1</sup>) That statute allows a district court to order a person
19 residing or found within its district to produce documents or provide testimony for use in a foreign 20 legal proceeding, unless the disclosure would violate a legal privilege. (See 28 U.S.C. § 1782.) The 21 United States has consented to the undersigned's jurisdiction. (Consent, ECF No. 2.) Upon 22 consideration of the United States's application and the relevant legal authority, the court grants the 23 application.

STATEMENT

25 The National Court Administration of the Republic of Korea requests that the United States

1 Attorney's Office for the Northern District of California obtain information and documents from 2 Google, Inc.. a company located in Mountain View, California, which is located in this District.
3 (Memo, ECF No. 1-1 at 1.) The information and documents are sought by the Korean<sup>2</sup> court for use
4 in a lawsuit brought by Malsaeng Co., Ltd. against Young-Sung Kim, for recovery of damages. (Id.;
5 see also Declaration of Melanie Proctor, Ex. A, ECF No. 1-2.) Specifically, the Korean court seeks,
6 from February 7, 2013 to the present date, (1) a "list of all the applications sold under the name of 7 seller Defendant Yuong-Sung Kim who registered as a seller with the email address of 8 kandroidmobile@gmail.com and ID of KevinKim," (2) the "total number of such applications sold," 9 (3) the "retail prices of each of such applications," and (4) "the total net amount actually paid to the 10 Defendant after deduction of any fees or expenses." (Declaration of Melanie Proctor, Ex. A, ECF
11 No. 1-2 at 11.)

12 By letters dated January 21, 2015 and February 24, 2015, the United States Attorney's Office
13 requested that Google, Inc. voluntarily provide the requested information. (Declaration of Melanie
14 Proctor, ¶ 3, ECF No. 1-2 at 1.) On February 27, 2015, Google, Inc. informed the United States
15 Attorney's Office that it will not voluntarily provide the requested information, but it may respond
16 to a subpoena. (Id., ¶ 4, ECF No. 1-2 at 2.)

17 On March 2, 2015, the United States filed the pending application. (Application, ECF No. 1.) It
18 asks the court to grant the application and appoint Assistant United States Attorney Melanie Proctor
19 as Commissioner and authorize her to obtain the requested information from Google, Inc.

20 ANALYSIS

21 I. LEGAL STANDARD

22 28 U.S.C. § 1782(a) provides, in pertinent part:

23 The district court of the district in which a person resides or is found may order him
24 to give his testimony or statement or to produce a document or other thing for use in a 25 proceeding in a foreign or international tribunal, including criminal investigations conducted before formal accusation. The order may be made pursuant to a letter

26 <sup>2</sup> The United States's memorandum states that the information and documents are sought by 27 "the Taiwan court," but the court presumes, in light of every other statement in the application, memorandum, accompanying declaration, and proposed order that the United States means "the 28 Korean court."

1       rogatory issued, or request made, by a foreign or international tribunal or upon the
2 application of any interested person and may direct that the testimony or statement be 3 given, or the document or other thing be produced, before a person appointed by the court.

4       A litigant in a foreign action qualifies as an “interested person” under § 1782. See Intel Corp. v.
5 Advanced Micro Devices, Inc., 542 U.S. 241, 256 ( 2004). In order to apply for discovery pursuant 6 to § 1782, a formal proceeding in the foreign jurisdiction need not be currently pending, or even
7 imminent. Id. at 258- 59. Instead, all that is necessary is that a “dispositive ruling” by the foreign 8 adjudicative body is “within reasonable contemplation.” Id. at 259 (holding that discovery was 9 proper under § 1782 even though the applicant’s complaint against the opposing party was only in 10 the investigative stage). An ex parte application is an acceptable method for seeking discovery
11 pursuant to § 1782. See In re Letters Rogatory from Tokyo Dist., Tokyo, Japan, 539 F.2d 1216, 12 1219 (9th Cir. 1976) (holding that the subpoenaed parties may raise objections and exercise their 13 due process rights by bringing motions to quash the subpoenas).

14       A district court has wide discretion to grant discovery under § 1782. Intel, 542 U.S. at 260- 61.
15 In exercising its discretion, a district court should consider the following factors: (1) whether the 16 “person from whom discovery is sought is a participant in the foreign proceeding”; (2) “the nature of 17 the foreign tribunal, the character of the proceedings underway abroad, and the receptivity of the 18 foreign government or the court or agency abroad to U.S. federal court judicial assistance”; (3)
19 whether the request “conceals an attempt to circumvent foreign proof-gathering restrictions or other
20 policies of a foreign country or the United States”; and (4) whether the request is “unduly intrusive
21 or burdensome.” See id. at 264- 65.

22       A district court’s discretion is to be exercised in view of the twin aims of § 1782: providing 23 efficient assistance to participants in international litigation, and encouraging foreign countries by 24 example to provide similar assistance to our courts. See Schmitz v. Bernstein Liebhard & Lifshitz,
25 LLP, 376 F.3d 79, 84 (2004). There is no requirement that the party seeking discovery establish that 26 the information sought would be discoverable under the governing law in the foreign proceeding or
27 that United States law would allow discovery in an analogous domestic proceeding. See Intel, 542
28 U.S. at 247, 261-63.

1 || II. APPLICATION

A. Statutory Requirements

The United States's application satisfies the minimum requirements of § 1782: Google, Inc. resides in Mountain View, California, which is in this District; the requested discovery is for use in a Korean lawsuit brought by Malsaeng Co., Ltd. against Young-Sung Kim, for recovery of damages, which is a proceeding before a foreign tribunal; the request was made by the National Court Administration of the Republic of Korea, a foreign tribunal; and the instant ex parte application is an acceptable method of requesting discovery under § 1782, see In re Letters Rogatory, 539 F.2d at 1219.

B. Exercise of the Court's Discretion

The court finds good cause to exercise its discretion to authorize the requested discovery.

12 Although Google, Inc. is not a litigant in the Korean lawsuit, the Korean court requested the 13 information, so it is clear that it is receptive to this court's assistance and that the request is not an 14 attempt to circumvent foreign proof-gathering restrictions or other policies of a foreign country or 15 the United States. It also does not appear that the request is unduly intrusive or burdensome.
16 Should Google Inc. disagree upon being served with the subpoena, it may file a motion to quash and 17 raise the issue at that time.

CONCLUSION

19       Based on the foregoing, the court grants the United States's application and appoints Assistant
20      United States Attorney Melanie Proctor as Commissioner and authorizes her to obtain the requested
21      information from Google, Inc. The Clerk of the Court shall close this action for administrative 22      purposes. Should Google, Inc. file a motion to quash, the action shall automatically be reopened.
